

See where wealth is concentrated in California

By Phillip Reese, Sacramento Bee

Like much of America, California's wealth is concentrated among a small group of high-income earners. The state has 16 million households, and just 61,000 of them – 0.4 percent – together account for one-fifth of the state's income, according to the latest tax return figures from the Franchise Tax Board.

About 9 of every 10,000 households in Sacramento County reported earnings of at least $1 million on 2014 returns, roughly one-fourth the statewide rate.

Placer, El Dorado and Yolo counties had rates two to three times as high, but still fell short of the statewide average.
