

Nevada races to get recreational marijuana on shelves

By Jenny Kane, Reno Gazette-Journal

Now that Nevada has the green light to move forward with its early start recreational marijuana program, it could set the national record for the fastest turnaround of retail reefer.

In a rush for kush, the state is attempting to power forward with recreational marijuana sales in a mere eight months since voters approved Question 2 in November.

That's faster than any other state so far.

Read the whole story