

Gaming win declines in July

Stateline's gaming revenue dropped 14.76 percent in July, while statewide the numbers dropped 1.73 percent compared to 2016.

The Nevada Gaming Control Board on Wednesday said the state numbers went from $1,015,558,545 to $997,972,643.

Table games and sports books are being blamed for the drop. Slot volume increased.

North Shore casinos posted a 3.65 percent gain.
